THE LAWS OF EVIDENCE.
Since the Governor, in his message, has pronounced so emphatically for the justice of admitting negroes to testify in the State courts, we presume that the Legislature will take early action upon his suggestion, and by a proper law set this much agitated question at rest forever. The argument of the Governor is clear and convincing, and has for its basis the ideas that the progressive minds of the leaders of public opinion have been advocating for several years. Let the honor of doing this act of pure justice be with the present General Assembly—If it does no more, it will be held in grateful remembrance.

The Governor only recommends, without argument, that the laws of evidence be so amended as to permit all parties in civil actions to be witnesses. This is also a suggestion worthy of serious attention. The plan has been tried in other States and found to work well. The primal aim of courts of justice is to get at the truth, and all proper means should be employed to attain this end. There are many reasons why the parties should testify, and none why they should not. Such a change would facilitate the administration of justice and elicit the facts in many transactions that could not otherwise be fairly and fully investigated. We may say away with much difficulty. Under our present system, parties swear to almost any kind of pleadings that lawyers draw up, and from which they would shrink if they knew they had to tell their own story in a court of justice. They would thus be constrained to state and swear to what was true. We say then, fling wide the doors and unbar the gates of evidence. Let the parties, plaintiff and defendant, testify in civil actions. Nay go further. In all criminal or penal actions, let the accused have the privilege of being sworn. Let the right be conferred, but let it be no prejudice or presumption against him if he declines to avail himself of it.

THE INTEREST LAW.
We notice in the proceedings of the Legislature that the spirit of old fogies has already begun to utter its complaints. Some members whose bows are yearning after popular applause, and who doubtless thinks he will signalize himself as a friend of the people, is already moving for the repeal of the conventional interest law. The law is a wise and good one. It has met with popular endorsement. Its passage was urged by the people. It was a measure that Kentucky had needed for years, and that had been agitated for years in her Legislatures. Finally, during the last session, the General Assembly had the good sense to pass it, and now some rural Solon is rattling around and urging the present Legislature to wipe this wholesome law from the statute-books. We trust and believe it will do no such foolish thing. We have a better opinion of it than to think it will signalize its initial legislation by committing such a blunder. It is a body that is mainly new and fresh from the people, and knows, and should know, their needs and wants.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.
There is but one thing we regret about the Governor's message to the Legislature, and that is its great length debars us from laying it before our readers. We confess that we were agreeably disappointed in its tone. Remembering the character of the speech delivered by His Excellency at this place during the canvass last summer, we expected a document temperate in tone and language; but we are more than pleased to find our expectations come to naught. There is unquestionably more statesmanship in our Governor than we gave him credit for, or than surface indications would lead one to suppose. Calm, dignified, earnest, logical and progressive—he is all these. Particularly do we admire his position on the question of negro testimony. His arguments are irresistible and indisputable, and his recommendations to the Legislature wise and just. We had intended to make several extracts from the message, and had them already in type, when an avalanche of new advertisements came in and compelled us to leave them out. We will publish them on our outside pages next week.

Under Senator Sumner's plan of taking up $10,000,000 a month of the bonds with compound-interest rates, we could only require three years to pay off our debt. See the last of the greenbacks to get rid of this part of our debt, which is the best, and which could be done quickly, and of a current generally acceptable, in case our interest-bearing bonds are not applicable. The people backs and less bonds bonds and less greenbacks. Carlisle is so enthusiastic about the railroad that he has portion of the on his premises, to the snow and rain.

Because the Carlisle Mercury claims to have the largest subscription list of any paper published in Northeastern Kentucky, the Flemingsburg Democrat is cruel enough to poke fun at it. The Democrat, probably, is not aware that it is an article of Carlisle religion to believe that Nicholas county is Northeastern Kentucky.

The Carlisle girls, desirous to smile upon any young man who has not rid upon the keels.

Circuit Court is still in session. A large amount of business has been transacted so far.

A great many of our citizens filled their icehouses during the cold snap last week.

We had a few days of extremely cold weather last week, and the wind feels somewhat winterish yet.

Every able-bodied man in Carlisle expects to be a passenger conductor on their railroad (?)

Genuine Chinchilla overcoats at $12, and less than $1 if you wish at Maupin & Oscar's. Call and get one before they are all gone.

The Carlisle girls are all red-headed and red-faced. Dress one of them in white and she looks like a lady-bug in a pan of milk.

Maupin & Oscar are still selling Copper Tip Shoes at 10 cents pair, and coats at 100, and still less than these figures, if you desire.

To be Sold for Charge. All articles have been in store one year, will be sold for charges on next county court day.

49-4d P. L. REESE & BRO.

Elder R. M. Gano will commence a protracted meeting at the Christian church in this place on the first Saturday in January next, at 6:30 o'clock, p.m.

The Louisville Courier-Journal has been enlarged to forty columns. It is now the largest and handsomest, and has long been the ablest, journal in the West.

Col. Tucker, our Representative in the Legislature, is chairman of the important committee on the Revised Statutes. He is also a member of the committee on Circuit Courts.

The Trustees of Carlisle have passed a by-law making it a fineable offence for any one to step on the railroad in the limits of that town without first wiping their feet.

We are in receipt of the Daily Franklin Courier, for which the price is 5 cents. Persons keep posted as to the doings of the Legislature should subscribe for the Yankee.

Overcoats, Undershirts and Socks and all kinds of heavy clothing. Boots and Shoes, and Caps for little boys, all much cheaper than Doctor's bills, at Maupin & Oscar's cheap store.

Scudder, of the Carlisle Mercury, attended church last Sunday, and, as usual with him, fell asleep during the sermon. When the deacon came around taking up the collection, and shook Scudder by the shoulder, the latter, half awakened, exclaimed, in a tone audible to the whole congregation: "All right, conductor! I've a free pass over this road!"

The Carlisle Mercury says all the whisky in Mt. Sterling was frozen the other night. That, as Dr. Greeley would observe, is presumptive slander. The Carlisle demand for whisky, since the opening of the little pig-path to the Mouth of Lime-stone, has been so great and so constant it keeps our dealers scratching to meet it. There hasn't been a drop of whisky sold or drank in this town since the cars reached Carlisle, and all our people are joining the Good Templars in sheer self-defense.

A shooting affray occurred in this town on Thursday last between John Dale and Ben Jones. From what we learn of the difficulty, Jones assaulted Dale, and we are informed, knocked or pushed him down, when Dale drew a small single-barreled pistol and fired, the ball grazing one of Jones' ears. After the shooting the parties clinched, when Dale threw Jones, the latter striking his head on the curbing, fracturing his skull, from which it is thought he will die. Both were drunk at the time of the difficulty.

The Carlisle Mercury, pointing to the trail which has recently been blazed through the woods from its town to Maysville, cries out to us, "sour grapes!" Why, the fellow certainly isn't aware that we have a turnpike from our town to Maysville.

The usual morning Episcopal service will not be held for the same reason.

Mr. R. T. Bean, of the firm of Chiles & Bean, is now in Cincinnati purchasing a large stock of goods for the holidays. A portion of the stock having arrived is advertised in this issue, to which the attention of housekeepers is directed.

Carlisle gentleman, who mourns because he did not marry a black-eyed woman, consol'd himself the other day by blacking the blue eyes of his wife. The magistrate refused to fine him because he had been to Maysville on the cars.

We learn that our enterprising and public-spirited fellow-citizen, Maj. S. Tenney, is making arrangements to erect two handsome business houses on Maysville street next spring. We hear that the town contained an hundred citizens as the Major.

Looney, of our town, has contracted for the grading of a road on section 33 Lexington and Big Sandy railroad, which is to run next to town. Pat is dead, and we have no news of his work completed at the time, June 1, 1871.

Report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

We are indebted to Hon. H. A. M. Henderson, Superintendent of Public Instruction, for a copy of his valuable report for the current year. Mr. Henderson entertains liberal and enlightened views on the subject of education. No system of common schools can become efficient until it is popularized. No State possesses a more defective one than our own. The Superintendent points out many of its defects, and urges amendatory action upon the part of the Legislature. He recommends the addition of two practical educators to the State Board of Education, and that County Commissioners, or, preferably, Commissioners for Senatorial Districts, should be chosen by that Board. He suggests that one trustee is enough a school district, and favors the levying of a tax on each district for the purpose of building school-houses. He puts his foot flat down upon the "Cooley Job," and declares that he will not receive the History for the school districts, and emphatically asserts his determination not to certify to any accounts for furnishing the books, unless compelled to do so by the courts, or instructed to do that end by further legislation.

J. D. Book, aged nineteen, was wedded to Miss Sophie Tillotson, aged seventeen, in Henderson, the other day. It hoped that the wedded life of these young Books may result in a number of editions.

DEATHS.

MAGGIE.—On the 28th ult., at Cynthia, Ky. SHERIDAN: infant son of H. M. and Anna Magge, aged two years and five months.

A little girl, who was born on a grassy bank, died yesterday. Her mother had been most fair. The brother loved to haggle with her waves. The sunlight loved to halo it with gold, and bird and bee the sweetest nectar sucked From its perfumed heart.

Whose eyes caught new beauty while wandering Where wave and deer and birds and leaves went To hang around their glassed set on this earth. Here nature hath born its sweetest flower.

A little girl, who was born on a grassy bank, died yesterday. Her mother had been most fair. The brother loved to haggle with her waves. The sunlight loved to halo it with gold, and bird and bee the sweetest nectar sucked From its perfumed heart.

And there were those Who, once, caught new beauty while wandering Where wave and deer and birds and leaves went To hang around their glassed set on this earth.

There water became as hard as flinted rock. It touched the garments of the trees, and let loose the green leaf to fall to earth, and naked stood The rocks. Water did not wash away the stone. The brother loved to haggle with her waves.

The sunlight loved to halo it with gold, and bird and bee the sweetest nectar sucked From its perfumed heart.

North, there comes a black and bitter death. It rode upon the wind, and spread out to All the ends of earth. Water did it moist?

North, there comes a black and bitter death. It rode upon the wind, and spread out to All the ends of earth. Water did it moist?

Then water became as hard as flinted rock. It touched the garments of the trees, and let loose the green leaf to fall to earth, and naked stood The rocks. Water did not wash away the stone. The brother loved to haggle with her waves.

The sunlight loved to halo it with gold, and bird and bee the sweetest nectar sucked From its perfumed heart.

WOMAN.

and She Says and Does.
woman question: What did she the fashionable ladies of St. Louis are all smokers — so says a local journal.

Fifty young widows reside in the small town of Centreville, Indiana, and it is unsafe for an unprotected man to pass through there.

It is now the proper time for the mother of the groom to present her intended daughter-in-law with the point lace veil and boucles to be worn on the wedding day.

Anne Dickinson thinks the unmarried women have a vague idea when they get their "rights" they will one day be provided with husbands by process of law.

A loving wife in Bridgeport, Conn., on the decease of her husband, sent the following telegram to a distant friend: "Dear John is dead; Loss fully covered by insurance."

A woman lecturer says woman's sphere is bounded on the north by her husband, on the east by her baby, on the south by her mother-in-law, and on the west by her maid-servants.

Eighteen hundred and seventy-two is leap year, which means that in it courageous girls may with perfect propriety leap into hymen's realm by popping the question to timid young men.

A beautiful and rather a roguish young lady, on being asked how she would like to be in command of a ship, archly replied she did not know she would succeed with so large a vessel, but that she could at any time command a smack.

A lady whose husband was suddenly killed by the falling of a road bridge with a train upon it, actually wrote her entire sight away in two weeks from the fatal day.

The St. Louis girls were so badly frightened by the experience of one of their number who dislocated her neck while resting, a kiss, that they now hold their lips in the softest and most comfortable position whenever they see any man anywhere near.

An impudent and romantic lover said to his sweetheart, "I am the oak and you the vine; I draw you to me with cords of love." "Not so," replied the blushing fair one; "if I'm the vine, I prefer the ordinary twine."

A lady who refused to give, after hearing a charity sermon, had her pocket picked as she was leaving church. On making the discovery she said: "The parson could not find the way to my pocket, but the devil did."

Miss Nilsson was the guest of a select party at dinner, in New York, last week, on which occasion she was presented with a full-rigged clipper ship, about four feet long, called the Cuba, every portion of which is composed of flowers. It sits in a basin representing the sea, which is also a floral composition.
It cost two hundred dollars.

Gill Hamilton Bursts out Afresh on the Woman Question.

Gill Hamilton, in one of her recent lectures, discusses the question of man's duty toward woman. Here is a specimen of her mode of treating the matter:

"Look at it without regard to spiritual compensation, God is the most partial of beings. He made one sex strong and the other weak; and upon the weak he laid a heavy burden, where upon the strong he laid none at all. Worse than this, he made the burden of the weaker sex insuperable, while the only burden of the stronger sex was so lightly and loosely laid that it could always be shifted to the shoulders of the weaker; and it always has, to a greater or less degree, been thus shifted, so that the weaker has borne the load of the stronger in addition to its own. With all this, he left it to no one's choice whether to be male or female, or whether to be at all; but of His own will begat He us. To man He gave not only strength but joy; to woman not only weakness but suffering. Man incurs pain only through disease, the result of folly or ignorance. Woman's highest health and happiness comes through the valley of the shadow of death.
The hardest law that man ever framed for woman is tender and benevolent compared with the irreversible natural law under which lives, moves, and has its being.
Do I then arraign God? I do if natural equality is the implement of natural inequality. I do unless political conditions shall change physical conditions unless constitutional amendments shall emanate from the courts of heaven to correspond with the mandates of legislation; unless the decree that woman's arm shall do man's mangle. If it is God's will that women shall be on the same footing with men, that they shall go out, as men go, to earn their own living and make their own way, to bear the brunt, and form the front, and face the foe, then there is no God. There is only a great cruel partial man sitting in the heavens, whom I hate, though I can not hinder."

A Thrilling Scene in a Catholic Church.

Yesterday morning, during the nine o'clock service at the Church of St. John the Evangelist, a scene took place that struck terror into the heart of every mother present. Father McMahon, while earnestly addressing the congregation, was interrupted by one of his assistants handing him a note. On perusing it he remarked: "If there is a lady present by the name of Curtis she will please follow me to the clergy room," adding "that something had occurred at his home since she left it an hour ago."— There was a general stir throughout the assembly, and presently a lady arose and made her way toward the front of the church, the priest following her out. He shortly returned, however, saying the lady who had responded to the summons was the wrong person. It was some other Mrs. Curtis whose attention he desired to attract. As he was on his way he continued, that the child of the woman whose attention he desired to attract had been burned to death since she left it that morning. An exclamation, and a woman's shriek of agony succeeded the announcement, and the poor victim was led through the crowd, her face fear had kept her first summons.
